How Trutherton Got Its Honesty Back (12 x 10, 32 color pages): _____ copies

Student Council candidates make outlandish campaign promises. The Deputy overreacts and bans honesty. It’s untruthful chaos! When the kids start making up stories to their parents, a wild chase ensues. The TOLD-U (the outlandish lie detector unit) goes berserk and it’s up to the kids to restore the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Gold Winner, General/Early Reader, Children’s Literary Classics, 2013

How Mannerland Got Its Manners Back (12 x 10, 32 color pages): _____ copies

Lightning slices “Manner” off the “Welcome to Mannerland” sign. All manners and good behavior spiral out of control. The kids are invited to star in a reality show, without parents, in their own town. The only way to return home is to win the Manners Matchup, kids vs. parents.

NYRA Recommended Reading – Picture Book, 2012

How Sugaropolis Got Dessert Back (12 x 10, 32 color pages): _____ copies

What happens when the kids are too full for dinner but have plenty of room for dessert? Dessert is banned! The kids protest, the world’s largest food fight breaks out, and the kids find themselves forced to negotiate healthier eating!

How Stinkville Got Cleaned Up (12 x 10, 32 color pages): _____ copies

The first book in the series. It’s about a town where nobody takes a bath. The town’s Stink-O-Meter goes out of control, and two young heroes take the law into their own lassos until every man, woman, child, horse and hamster are cleaned up!
